

ALEXANDRIA, VA.

THURSDAY EVENING, AUGUST 3, 1892.

MR. FINLEY, whose seat in the U. S. House of Representatives was taken away from him by the republican majority of that House in order to give it to a member of their party who had been legally defeated at the polls, has been renominated by acclamation by the democrats of the Jacksonville district, in Florida, and will be elected by an increased majority. And so it will be with all the other Southern democrats who have been deprived of their seats in the House by the unscrupulous republican majority in order to increase that majority and to increase the number of republican contestants from the South for seats in the next House. Men who were not favorable to them before will support them now because they have been badly treated, and because the people of their districts have been unjustly deprived of their legally elected representatives.

THREE STATES are directly interested in the re-election of Senator Davis, of West Virginia -his own, Virginia and Maryland. The two latter don't presume even to recommend to the former what she shall do in the case, but they tell her that if she does re-elect the Senator they will be greatly obliged to her, for he is not only as faithful and efficient a representative as it is possible for her to have in the Senate, but he also looksafter their interests and does everything he can to promote them. Owing to a recent Virginia she will have no true representative in the Senate during the next Congress and she is therefore specially desirous of Mr. Davis's re-election because her people know that in him they have an efficient friend upon whom they can always rely. It is a selfish hope, but it nevertheless reflects honor upon both Mr. Davis and his own adjourns, which will be in a day or two, Virginians will look in vain for any of the benefits that were promised them as the sure result of General Mahone's influence. The money that Virginia advanced the General Government has not been returned to her, her old men who fought in the Mexican war have not been pensioned, no appropriation has been made for the negro schools the tobacco she raises. The General has profited individually by having the Government relieve him of some of his obligations by giving offices to those who have done him service, but two small public buildings, one at Harrisonburg and the other at Abingdon, are no equivalent to the State he misrepresents in the Senate for his putting that body in the hands of the republicans by a disgraceful bargain.

MAJ. BOB HUNTER, the genial, able and versatile editor of the Winchester Times,

Like Noah's weary dove That soar'd the earth around, But not a resting place above The cheerless waters found, has returned to his ark, and resumed the tripod, where may he continue to exercise his talents for his own and the good of his people. The Major is in full accord with the Massey movement.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR'S suggestion that he be allowed discretionary disposal of the money appropriated by the river and harbor bill was flouted yesterday by friend and foe alike. What induced him to make it nobody can tell, except probably his Attorney General, who has decided that a Congressman is not an officer of the Government.

UNTIL THE President's recent action in the assessment matter even his political opponents were disposed to credit him with being a bold, if not an unscrupulous partizan, but the action referred to deprives him of all claim to that small merit, and leaves him poor indeed.

THE AUGUST number of Golden Days, for boys and girls, has been received from its publisher, James Elverson, Philadelphia. This is one of the best magazines of the kind printed in this country.

Koumiss.--Koumiss has almost become a popular beverage since it was brought into prominence by the late President's physicians. It is a pungent, pleasant drink, which "cheers, but not inebriates," and physicians are prescribing it freely for dyspepsia. The Tartars make koumiss of mare's milk. A little sugar added to cow's milk answers the same purpose. The beverage can be made at home, and here is a formula for it : Fill a quart champagne bottle up to the neck with pure milk; add two tablespoonful of white sugar, after dissolving the same in a little water over a hot fire ; add also a quarter of a two-cent cake of compressed yeast. Then tie the cork on the bottle securely, and soak the mixture well; place it in a room of the temperature of 50 to 95-degrees Fahrenheit for six hours, and finally in the icebox over night. Drink in such quantities as the stomach may require. It will be well to observe several important injunctions in preparing the koumiss, and they are: First, to be sure that the milk is pure; second that the bottle is sound; third that the yeast is fresh; fourth, to open the mixture in the morning with great care on account of its effervescent properties; fifth, not to drink it at all if there is any curdled or thickened part resembling cheese, as this indicates that the fermentation has been prolonged beyond the proper time.

FROM WASHINGTON

Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette. WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3, 1882.—There was a meeting of the Senate Committee on Postoflices and Postroads this morning, at which the nomination of D. A. Windsor, to be postmaster at Alexandria, was considered and favorably reported. If there be an ex- al cases reported, but no deaths. excutive session of the Senate to-day, as is probable, the report will be presented and the nomination be confirmed without any trouble, as the democrats will not deem it of sufficient consequence to delay the session by any opposition, and as the republicans are bound by their bargain with Mahone to favor all his appointments. The General has little or no influence in affairs not immediately connected with Virginia, but so far as relates to the disposal of the federal patronage in his State he is as much as if not more of a boss than Mr. Cameron is in Pennsylvania, and this fact is so well known now that it is undisputed.

It is now pretty well ascertained that Mr. H. W. Talbott, of Rockville, Maryland, will be elected President of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal at the meeting of the stockholders thereof, to be held on the 17th inst. It is also believed that Mr. Montgomery Blair will be the democratic candidate for Congress from the district adjoining this city at the next election. His republican opponent will be either the present member, Mr. Urner, or General Grant's friend, General Beale.

The impression among newspaper men here is that the testimony of Mr. Buell, a witness for the defence in the star route

It is understood here that Col. Popham has not been heard from since he was reported to have left Culpeper Court House three days ago, and that his whereabouts are unknown even to his best friends.

The Geological Survey of the States has been secured in the sundry civil bill and thus the almost inestimable mineral wealth of Virginia will be laid before the world in a definite shape. For this the State can remarkable condition of political affairs in thank Senator Davis of West Virginia who has worked for it incessantly during the last three years.

The House committee on the judiciary today directed its chairman to report to the House the resolution which was adopted yesterday, declaring forfeited the lands granted by the U. S. government to the Texas and Pacific railroad on all that portion of its original line through New Mexico, Arizona and Southern California, which has not been built upon.

At to day's meeting a resolution was offered declaring forfeited the lands granted by the U. S. to the New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Vicksburg railroad, but pending consideration thereof the committee adjourned sine die.

Intelligence from Virginia to-day is con-firmatory of that of yesterday which was to the effect that the star of Mahoneism has reached its zenith and is now on its rapid decline. It is stated on the best authority that the delegation from Washington county to the readjuster Congressional convenher tax-payers are bound to support, nor tion in the 9th district is not only solid for has any reduction been made in the tax on Fulkerson, anti-Mahoneite, but that half of it is for Massey for Congressman at large From Richmond it is learned that unless a great change takes place there the Mahone candidate for Congressman at large will get nothing like the full republican or readjuster vote, and that people who come to that city from all sections of the State report the practical and efficacions than action by same condition of affairs in their respective

The conference committee on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill met last night and again this morning, but failed to reach an agreement.

General Mahone was in the Senate yesterday when the vote on the river and harbor bill was taken, but with all his independence, wasn't inde pendent enough to vote. Mr. Johnston was absent is he had been for a week previous, but was paired. It is stated here that the system of nepotism was never carried to a greater extent than it has been pushed by General Mahone in the case of his own and the Wise family.

Beverly E. Sutherland was commissioned post master at Marmora, Dinwiddie co., Va., to-day, The House to day by an almost unanimous vote agreed to adjourn sine die on Saturday next, the 5th inst. The Senate will either concur or post-pone the day of adjournment until Monday, the 7th, certainly not later.

The August Meteors

On the nights of the 9th, 10th, and 11th a display of celestial fire-works may be looked for. The earth then plunges through the domain of the erratic member of the system known as the August meteor zone. This zone is a gigantic ellipse or hoop whose perihelion is within the earth's orbit, and whose aphelion reaches beyond the orbit of with the powers. Neptune. It is mysteriously associated, as Schiaparelli discovered, with the second comet of 1862, or has been gradually formed from its substance. The meteors are disributed through every portion of the ring, hough somewhat unequally. Every year, therefore, when the earth crosses the zone, about the 10th of August, there is a shower of meteors more or less abundant according to the density of the cosmical cloud. The meteors shoot from the constellation Perseus, which is for this reason called the radient point, and the meteors are called Perseides. Sometimes the showers are very brilliant, almost rivaling the famous November ones. At ordinary times an observer may be reasonably sure of seeing several hundreds on the nights mentioned. These meteors are distinguished from those belonging to other meteor systems by their vellow color, and they leave behind them trails of luminous vapor that often last several seconds. Poetry and superstition have given to the August meteors the name of fiery tears of St. Lawrence, because they oc cur on the anniversary of the day made memorable by the martyrdom of the famous saint. The constellation Perseus rises late in the eyening in the northeast, and may be known by a semi-circle of stars forming the sword of the hero. Observers on the nights mentioned will be sure to see a moderate display of meteors. They may be rewarded for their pains by the sight of a golden shower of unusual abundance and beauty.— Providence R. I., Journal.

The Constantinople Conference.

At the sitting of the conference at Constantinople yesterday M. Onon, the Russian representative, and Said Pasha, the Turkish delegate, made declarations on behalf of their respective governments. Lord Dufferin explained England's action at Alexandria. He said that the forts had been destroyed solely as a measure of defense, and that the steps which followed were imposed by force majesire. England's sole object was to restore peace and order, to secure free navigation of the Suez Canal, and to restore the authority of the Khedive. While reserving liberty of action, events might render it necessary for England to accept co-operation of any power ready to give it. Lord Dufferin added: "We also accept the Sultan's friendly aid. We are glad to be relieved of the uncertainty regarding the real intentions of the Sultan, caused by the decoration bestowed upon Arabi Pasha. We still require that a proclamation be issued supporting the authority of the Khedive and declaring Arabi Pasha a rebel." The Ottoman plenipotentiaries made the following declaration: We have taken note of the communications of Lord Dufferin and of each member of the conference. representatives are of opinion that action England. The assertion of inaction on the part of the Porte is unfounded, as after the presentation of the identical note the Porte agreed to take part in the conference and to dispatch troops to Egypt. Secondly, the resolution of the Porte to dispatch troops to Egypt was based upon the tenor of the identical note, and satisfied the powers; but the attitude adopted by England in subordinating her acceptance of the arrival and co-operation of Turkish troops to the proclamation of Arabi Pasha as a rebel is not in accordance with the satisfaction expressed by the powers.

Thirdly-The Porte never declined the ssistance of the powers to maintain the status quo, which was proved by Turkey accepting the conditions of the identical note relating to the future of Egypt. Fouthly-Regarding the issue of a proclamation declaring Arabi Pasha a rebel, the Porte hopes the conference will approve of a proclamation being issued simultaneously with the presence of Ottoman troops in Egypt in order to obtain an efficacious and practical result whenever disorders require the adoption of rigorous measures. As the proclamation is to explain the situation and to impeach a subject of the Sultan who was decorated at a moment when manifesting fidelity, it must derive its force from the immediate co-operation of imperial troops, whose absence at the promulgation would render the provisions of the proclamation barren of result and aggravate the present state of things. The conference will recognize in the Porte a sincere desire to restore order and to establish a loyal understanding

Sir.—Do not stop the good work, but place in each district of Virginia a republican candidate for Congress. The cause for which Garfield died must not be lost. The republicans of Virginia, who will not surrender their political rights, and who are determined to maintain at all times and under all circumstances, the exercise of their own conscience and judgement concerning public affairs, their attachment to the principles of the republican party: freedom, union, nationalty, equal rights before the law, maintenance of the public faith-State and National-protection to home industry, and demand that the record which has been so nobly made shall be wisely and fearlessly perpetuated; to take up the work which fel when Garfield fell; demand, in place of the 'spoils system," the reformation of the Civil Service by law, so that the appointive places therein may be freely open to all fit and meritorious citizens, and removals shall be only for good and sufficient public causes. We demand, instead of the public service to private uses, its recognition as a high and honorable trust, to be administered for the peoples' benefit with efficiency, economy and integrity. Demand, instead of the insolence, proscription and tyranny of "Bossism" and machine rule, the free and conscientious exercise of private judgment in political affairs, and the faithful discharge, by those who assume representative trusts, of the ex-pressed will of the people. Approve the platform of the Republican convention, held in Richmond, Va., on the 26th of July, 1882: to restore the Republican party to the high estate in which the immortal Lincoln found it, and in which the sainted Garfield would have left it. So again, put in each district a Republican candidate for Congress, and all will be well. Respectfully, J. T. PRITCHARD.

Why do I take this course? my friends may ask. I will answer by stating that I believe that if justice had been done us as a party, the Coalitionists would have elected the Hon. John F. Can any honest Republican longer consent to lay aside the Republican party at the dictation of this coalition. I, as one man, answer no. MARTIN HARRIS.

Your friend, MAR. LYNCHBURG, July 31, 1882. BISMARCK'S FEAR OF THE NEWSPAPERS. There is something paradoxical in the most self-reliant, audacious, and successful statesman of the age having a morbid dread of the unfavorable opinion of an obscure news to maintain troops in Egypt in consequence ed, powerful Prince Bismarck, Chancellor of the inaction of the Porte, the Ottoman and creator of the German Empire. He defies a Parliament, bullies Kings, scolds Amon the part of the Sultan would be more bassadors, and is irritated beyond measure over a joke at his expense in a newspaper of limited circulation. Last month he procured the conviction of the editor of a village journal who had been guilty of jesting about the proposed tobacco tax or monopoly. How a man so busy with the affairs of so vast a realm can find the time to scan all the journals in his domain for reflections on himself is in itself surprising. Of course he has a goodly number of clerks whose special business it must be to pore over every paper published in the German Empire for paragraphs about Bismarck. Unfavorable ones are marked and must be submitted to the great man of mighty affairs, who directs the persecution of the luckless offender. All the ponderous law machinery of the Empire is set in motion to hunt down and crush the humble writer for a newspaper of a few thousands or hundreds of circulation. In this undignified pursuit no game is too small for the mighty Bismarck. His sensitiveness to unfavorable newspaper criticism amounts to a mania. To be scratched with : literary pen appears to inoculate him with a mental hydrophobia, the paroxysms of which can be allyed only by the punishment of the inflicter of the insignificant wound. Were it not for the per-secution of journalists, the sensitiveness of Bismarck to newspapers strictures would be amusing. His pitiful, if not comical irritability, with its inconvenient consequences, does not cower the spirits of the German editors, and their fortitude is worthy our admiration. - Printer's Circular.

How Indians Farm .- A gentleman just up from Standing Rock Agency, in answer to an inquiry as to how the reds were progressing in the eaceful ways of grangering, smiled and said their nanner was odd. Every year they seemed to know less about how to farm. This is attributed to the fact that they are learning the ways of the whites too rapidly. They begin to understand that as soon as they can grow crops their rations will be cut off, and hence their growing ignorance of agriculture. If they are given a bushel of beans to plant they will eat nine-tenths of the amount and plant one-tenth, and the one-tenth will be dumped in three or four holes in the ground. Last spring they were given five bushels of onion seeds. They could not est them, and consequently plant-ed the entire five bushels on a piece of ground fifty by one hundred feet. They were too lazy to prepare a larger patch; besides it would have been contrary to their policy of maintaining the ration system. When the onions came up it was a curisystem. ous sight to see the young stinkers crowd each other. The whole dry, naked surface, of the ground was raised up top of the sprouting plants. It is our informant's opinion that the present gen-

DIED.

The obituary columns of the GAZETTE recently recorded the death of HARRIET VIRGINIA JOHNSON. A friend offers the following as an humble tribute to her memory. In Memorian.

It was not the writer's privilege to know the subject of this notice as long and as well as many others, but he knew her long enough and well enough to discover that she possessed many of the noblest traits that adorn the human character. For a number of years she had under her sole care an aged grandfather and grandmother to whose comforts she administered with a kindness and devotion worthy of imitation. Careful, considerate and ever kind to the aged pair, she would pillow the pale cheek and bathe the fainting brow, while ike a form of light she whispered peace, where else there had been woe. A year ago that fell destroyer consumption marked her for a victim. Patiently and without complaint did she bear her sufferings. During the latter part of her illness she knew that the world and the things thereof, were fading away before her. She knew that the silver cord was loosened and that the golden bowl was almost breaking at the fountain, but she was resigned to the will of Providence feeling that He who gave has a right to take away in his own good time and manner. The passage of her pure spirit from this vale of tears was as calm and gen-tle as the fall of the rose leaf to earth.

"At last. Without a word, or sigh or groan to show A parting pang, the spirit from her passed; And they who watched her nearest Could not tell the very instant."
